

Partner News - GreenArrays

GreenArrays is pleased to announce the opening of the arrayForth Institute, a free online learning resource intended to facilitate the successful use of our chips. Access via https is supported for those who prefer encrypted communications and don't mind the possible inconveniences. The curriculum is organized in courses, each of which is subdivided into one or more Learning Paths. The first such path is in place and ready for use. Anyone interested in our products may create an account and take our courses. Feedback will be appreciated!

At the same time we are improving the organization of the GreenArrays Website during March to make it easier to keep abreast of our literature.

In addition, a sequence of new Application Briefs and Notes is beginning. These will be announced on the GreenArraysTech Blog, so if you have not yet subscribed to its RSS feed this would be a good time to do so!

Finally, we'd love to hear from anyone who is interested in contributing course material to this effort.

Wellwishes from the team at GreenArrays!

Just for Fun

Schmartboard has created a fun new video in a rock and roll genre to promote our brand. Just for fun, we plan to release a new video each month. Some will be corny, some goofy some probably kind of lame...but we enjoy having fun with our products and have no problem laughing at ourselves when the results are in. We know our products are great, so a little fun at our expense on the creative is okay. Enjoy...or not! :o)

Top 3 Reasons Why You Should Become a Schmartboard Facebook Fan Today:
