SchmartBoard Selected To Launch New Product at Demo Conference

SchmartBoard announced that it has been chosen to participate in DEMOfall 2005. SchmartBoard will launch its latest circuit design innovation at the DEMOfall Conference held September 19-21 at the Huntington Beach Hyatt in California.

"SchmartBoard is one of 70 companies chosen to participate from hundreds of nominees for the DEMOfall 2005 Conference," said Chris Shipley, Executive Producer of the event. "I saw SchmartBoard's new technology and immediately invited the company to participate. The new product takes circuit board prototyping a major step forward and should also have significant implications to electronic engineering education as well."

The DEMO Conferences are like no other. Each company who launches at a DEMO event, regardless of size, faces the same screening process. Rigorously screened from hundreds of technologies from around the world, DEMO demonstrators are only the most significant, relevant and viable, the ones that exemplify and lead emerging trends. The Palm Pilot launched at a DEMO, as did Java 1.0 and TiVo. Products from last year are being distributed nationwide by Circuit City and T-Mobile.
